

August 28th. 1939

J. W. Poynter, Esq.,

Dear Mr. Poynter,

Thank you for your letter of August 25th. I agree with you that it would be best to defer meeting until the present war-scare has subsided. In the event of all going well I shall be happy to meet you any day next week for a chat on matters. It would be best, perhaps, if you were to drop me a line beforehand stating what time to expect you. The evening or morning would suit me, according to your convenience.

Yours sincerely,

Organising Secretary.
